

'Women in the Air' Day, August 29th, Bank Holiday Monday (Sunday 28th, Scotland)

The list of airfields, flying schools and aero clubs that have told us what they are planning to do to celebrate the day is growing but there is plenty of room for more! Scottish organisations advise that August 29th is not a Bank Holiday in Scotland so they are holding their events on Sunday 28th instead. If your club or flying group is not on the list below, why not ask them what they plan to do and let us know so we can add them to the list. Don't forget, if they enter our Challenge and turn out to be the organisation that flies the most women on the day, they get a free advert on the back of all four issues of our newsletter next year! Entry forms can be downloaded through this link:
